There are ways to work with the medical team to ensure your child is exposed to the smallest amount of radiation possible. Stay COOL and ask questions.

- Consider using other testing (without radiation) when appropriate
- Only image the indicated area
- Only scan once
- Lowest amount of radiation based on child’s size (child-dosing) should be administered

Parents are their child’s best advocate.
Make sure a CT scan is necessary before agreeing to the procedure.
