Leadership Lessons: The Future is Now

April 24-25 • Caesar’s • Atlantic City, NJ

Our nursing history is rich with the accomplishments of the many outstanding individuals who have gone before us. In a healthcare environment that is constantly changing and still redefining itself, we will bring together current legends who continue to impact nursing - changing the landscape of the profession, providing leadership lessons and educating on what we can expect in the future of our profession. These nurses advocate for important issues - not only in nursing - but in our lives and our communities. These are the current leaders who inspire others to become leaders and breathe new life into the profession.

Join us in Atlantic City as we review the history and the future of nursing; what it means to be a quantum leader; and the efforts underway to implement the recommendations found in the Institute of Medicine report. Listen to some of the best in our industry – major contributors in nursing – who will leave you asking, ‘What inspires me, how can I inspire others, and what can we do together to breathe new life into our profession?’

At the conclusion of the program, participants will be able to:

- Describe the goals stated in the IOM Future of Nursing report.
- Identify the factors that created the current educational situation in the U.S.
- Develop actions that will move New Jersey toward achieving educational advancement.
- Identify lessons learned by accomplished leaders.
- Outline the greatest issues facing the profession and the action plan needed.
- Describe the scope of problems faced by nurse executives in the midst of tumultuous healthcare change.
- Define a new concept of leadership.
- Discuss the impact this new leadership has on self and others.
- Outline the role of leadership in – and on – the profession.
- Define the evolution of nursing and the major changes that have driven the process.
- Identify four strategies that can revolutionize problem solving.
- Analyze the steps for change.
- Apply the change concepts to various settings.
