OVERVIEW:

The mission of the New Jersey Sepsis Learning-Action collaborative and conference is to spread evidence-based sepsis interventions throughout the acute and post-acute care settings. In this fifth year of the collaboration, healthcare providers face challenges related to managing sepsis across care settings and in vulnerable patient populations. This program will focus on dealing with those challenges and building on past successes to sustain the improvement efforts aimed at early recognition and rapid treatment of sepsis.

Important: All participants must prepare and present a sepsis storyboard during the storyboard presentation sessions. The topic of the storyboard is “What is your organization doing to improve the sepsis care of vulnerable patient populations?” Address a problem or observation that led to an innovation solution, development of a tool or change in process for a specific vulnerable patient population (pediatrics, nursing home, community-based groups). One storyboard per organization.

Storyboards can be displayed as no more than six PowerPoint slides or a poster. The day of the learning session, teams should bring their printed slides/poster affixed to a trifold board to NJHA.

When you arrive the morning of the learning session, you will receive information indicating which time and table location your storyboard should be posted on. Teams will be assigned to present during one of two 30-minute storyboard sessions. These sessions will be held in a gallery format with teams rotating through and viewing individual storyboards.

If you have any questions regarding the storyboards, please contact Shannon Davila at sdavila@njha.com

OBJECTIVES:

- Discuss the current state of sepsis quality improvement activities in New Jersey and nationally
- Describe how to manage sepsis in vulnerable patient populations

Upon completion of the program, the learner will have an in-depth understanding of sepsis in vulnerable populations and will have their sepsis team review sepsis data with 60 days of returning to their practice setting.
